

New Views of Society

Robert Owen for the 21st-century

Robert Owen was one of the most significant thinkers and social innovators of the nineteenth century. While widely recognised as the 'father of co-operation', and an exemplary industrialist and educational reformer, he is well-known for his work on the development of time-based currencies, trades unionism and experiments in community living. On the 150th anniversary of his death, this book explores these issues through a series of chapters written by leading current practitioners in each of the fields of endeavour that Owen was concerned with, and tries to draw lessons from his experience for social innovators of the future.

Edited by Richard Bickle and Molly Scott Cato

£9.99 (inc P&P)

radical scottish writing

The Scottish Left Review Press was launched in 2004 to support independent, radical writing on Scottish politics and culture. To order our books or to submit an idea for publication go to:

www.slrpress.org

or send a cheque to the address below

The Scottish Left Review is Scotland's leading journal of radical politics. For eight years we have provided an inclusive, non-party forum for all the left in Scotland. It is a non-profit publication which relies on subscriptions and donations. To subscribe go to:

www.scottishleftreview.org

Or complete the subscription form and return to Scottish Left Review, 741 Shields Road, Pollokshields, Glasgow G41 4PL

Name _____

Address _____

E-mail: _____

Amount: _____ Date: _____

Subscriptions: Individuals: £15 waged/£12 Unwaged. Organisations: £15 local/£30 national. Cheques should be crossed and made payable to: Left Review Scotland Ltd.